

Re-write the passage and add the missing punctuation.

I went to the movies last weekend to see the three latest november releases on friday night I caught the summer madness which was hardly appropriate to this season before Christmas however I did enjoy the weird dialogue between dr bones and the patient who felt possessed by a witch sit down for a spell the doctor had joked.

Early on saturday I went to see another movie it was brilliant I felt like singing the song always look on the bright side of life I loved the part where danny de vito hit billy crystals head with a pan and shouted you lied

Finally on Sunday I checked out the new adaption of Agatha christies novel murder on the orient express this movie was shot in February and while I thought poirots accent was more german than Belgian I found the plot absolutely intriguing

Re-write the passage and add the missing punctuation.

I went to the movies last weekend to see the three latest november releases on friday night I caught the summer madness which was hardly appropriate to this season before Christmas however I did enjoy the weird dialogue between dr bones and the patient who felt possessed by a witch sit down for a spell the doctor had joked.

Early on saturday I went to see another movie it was brilliant I felt like singing the song always look on the bright side of life I loved the part where danny de vito hit billy crystals head with a pan and shouted you lied

Finally on Sunday I checked out the new adaption of Agatha christies novel murder on the orient express this movie was shot in February and while I thought poirots accent was more german than Belgian I found the plot absolutely intriguing

Re-write the passage and add the missing punctuation.

I went to the movies last weekend to see the three latest november releases on friday night I caught the summer madness which was hardly appropriate to this season before Christmas however I did enjoy the weird dialogue between dr bones and the patient who felt possessed by a witch sit down for a spell the doctor had joked.

Early on saturday I went to see another movie it was brilliant I felt like singing the song always look on the bright side of life I loved the part where danny de vito hit billy crystals head with a pan and shouted you lied

Finally on Sunday I checked out the new adaption of Agatha christies novel murder on the orient express this movie was shot in February and while I thought poirots accent was more german than Belgian I found the plot absolutely intriguing